Womens' Athletic Association Announces New Officers

Janice Lawton, a junior majoring in home economics, was elected president of the Womens' Athletic Association for the academic year 1962-63 in the elections held the week preceding Spring recess.

Diana Dalton was elected secretary-treasurer and Mary Craigon and Donna Moses were tied in the bidding for vice-president. A general election is being conducted today during the lunch and dinner hours at Lippitt Hall and the women's communitarian hut to break this tie. Roberta Gederman, retiring president of WAA, said this is the first time in her knowledge that a tie has ever existed in this campus election. Approximately 560 girls voted in the election.

Miss Lawton, former vice-president of WAA, will assume her new office at the WAA banquet on May 1 at which time trophies will be presented to housing units for sports participation.

The function of WAA is to promote and conduct a variety of sports and dance activities for the participation and enjoyment of all women students both intermurally and intercollegiately. All female students are members of this organization.

Dining Hall Director Places Limits on After Meal Food

Merle A. Brown, manager of the dining hall services at URI, told the Student Advisory Board at a meeting at Lippitt Hall recently that "unless students stop throwing food on the campus grounds and elsewhere I will prohibit the removal of any food from the dining halls."

The board at a previous meeting refused to endorse a provision drawn up by the managers of the dining halls that prohibited food from being taken out of the cafeterias except single portions of fruit.

Mr. Brown said he was referring specifically to the roofs of the men's residence halls and the quadrangle. He said that "unless I have the cooperation of the student body in eliminating this problem, I will be forced to make such a provision as director of the dining halls."

Mr. Brown announced a change in the dining hall managers; Mr. Alexander M. Wallach, who was manager of Lippitt, will now manage Butterfield, and Mrs. Marjorie W. Schunke, who was manager of Butterfield dining hall, will now manage Lippitt.

Preliminary Voting Tomorrow To Select 'Miss URI-1962'

Date for the preliminary elections for Miss URI 1962 and applications for women students for the Open House procession have been announced by the Open House committee. Open House is set for May 12.

Tomorrow has been set for the preliminary election of candidates for the title of Miss URI 1962. The elections will be held at the Union from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Identification cards will be necessary to vote.

Each student may nominate three women on the basis of contribution to the university, scholarship, achievement, personality and personal appearance to compete in the Miss URI contest.

Final elections for Miss URI will be held on May 10. Identification cards will be required again to vote. The names of the top seven women will be on the ballot for the final vote. The student body will vote for only one of the candidates.

Applications are now available at the Union and housing units for all women students interested in participating in the procession during the Open House ceremonies. Four hundred women students are needed.

A plaque will be awarded the housing unit with the highest percentage of its members participating.

The tentative program for the May 12 Open House includes a ROTC parade and inspection and a demonstration by the Pershing Rifle drill team. The crowning of Miss URI will climax the quadrangle ceremonies.

G. E. Bowl Finals Set For This Week

The final selections of the four varsity scholars that will represent URI on the G. E. College Bowl on Sunday, May 20 will be made this week, it was announced by James Norman, head of the selection committee and team coach. The competition began with a general meeting and two written examinations.

Mr. Norman, URI instructor in speech and dramatic arts, explained to the 122 students present at the first meeting on April 10 the operation of the program and the manner in which the selections will be made. A short film of one of the early College Bowl programs was shown to demonstrate the procedure of the game.

Oral examinations were begun last Monday night in the Union. A second oral exam was held last night and two more are to be held, tonight and tomorrow night. The buzzer-bell system, made by the electrical engineering department, is used in the test. This system duplicates the one used on the show.

The questions asked are actual College Bowl questions which have been used in the past with the exception of a few current event questions. Members of the faculty at large will judge the contestants.

Following the oral exams, there is a personal interview. Here the URI students will have an opportunity to obtain free tickets to the G. E. College Bowl program on May 20 to see the URI team participate.

Mrs. Bertha Waring, Assistant Director of Student Activities, said this week the television producers have made 300 tickets available for distribution to students. The tickets will be available through the Memorial Union by reservation on a first-come-first-served basis.

"We're hoping to send a cheering squad down for the team," Mrs. Waring said.

"The Union will accept ticket reservations starting immediately," she said. "A waiting list will be set according to the order of re-contestants are judged on their personality, grooming and speed in answering questions.

From the written and oral examinations and the interview, the four varsity scholars will be chosen by the university committee. Mr. Norman will coach those students selected to develop their technique.

On May 17, the four varsity scholars will compete before the student body at a coffee hour in the Union. The buzzer-bell system will be used. The moderator for the coffee hour will be Mr. Norman.

Members of the university committee are Mr. Norman, Dr. Frank L. Woods, assistant to the dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and William O. Jones, professor of speech and dramatic arts.

servations. Tickets may then be picked up at the Union desk on Friday, May 18."

The show will be at CBS Studio 52 at 254 West 54th Street in New York. It will be telecast at 5:30 p.m. and doors will open at the studio at 5 p.m.

"To encourage support of the team, the Union will charter buses for the trip," Mrs. Waring said.

The buses will leave from the Union at 9:30 a.m. on Sunday, May 20 and students will arrive in New York just after 1:00 p.m. for lunch and sightseeing until the show begins. Return buses will leave New York at 7:00 p.m. and make one stop for dinner. Student bus rates will be $5.50 per person round trip.

Students may sign up immediately for bus reservations. Fare must be paid when signing up for the trip.

The free tickets may be obtained by all students regardless of whether Union buses are used.

Pre-Registration Set For May 14-19

Pre-registration for the academic year 1962-1963 will take place from Monday, May 14, to Saturday, May 19. All returning under-graduates must pre-register during this time.

Appointments with advisors should be made in the near future so that the program will be carried out during the appointed time. Prompt attention to the schedule will be appreciated by all concerned.

As in years past, students will pick up their course cards at the Registrar's Office. A copy of the courses offered will be given each student along with a copy of the tentative final examination schedule.

Students planning a change of curriculum should secure the appropriate petition forms from the Registrar and consult their academic deans on the pre-registration procedure.

Summer school applicants should pre-register at this time in the same fashion, making out the IBM course cards and printing "Summer School" at the top of the card. These should be sent jointly to the dean and to the Registrar accompanied by the regular summer school registration forms.

Prompt action on the part of the student body cannot be over-emphasized. In order to keep the registration program in order, the students must do their part. Those under-graduates who do not comply will be subject to substantial late registration fines and also possible delay in entering classes next fall.

Advertising Major To Attend Meeting

James Gibbs, a URI senior advertising major will represent the university at the Twelfth Inside Advertising Week sponsored by the Advertising Club of New York and the Association of Advertising Men and Women to be held the week of April 22 in New York.

Mr. Gibbs was elected by the Dean of the College of Business and by the head of the Marketing and Advertising Department and is being sponsored by the Providence Advertising Club.

16 Initiated to Tau Beta Pi

Tau Beta Pi, national engineering society, has announced the initiation of 16 junior engineering students, the largest group in its recent history.

The sixteen students from the College of Engineering were initiated on April 10, following a two-day pledgship during which the students wore the traditional Bent of Tau Beta Pi.

Initiated were Joseph Antinucci, Frank Bogart, Nguyen Chieu, Richard Cipolla, Ansel Cleinman, Frederick Elwell, John Krikorian, Jr., Arthur Lagasse, Elio Melucci, Richard Morin, Allen Morris, Raymond Peirce, Thomas Russell, Jr., Alexander Santos, Charles Thomason and Robert Wilson.

Alpha Zeta Honors Governor

The Rhode Island chapter of Alpha Zeta, national professional agricultural honorary fraternity, recently participated in the initiation of Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York as an honorary member of the organization.

Delegates from URI who participated in the initiation, held at the Cornell chapter in Ithaca, N. Y., consisted of the following: Paul Farrogut, chancellor; Edward Zy-bura, chronicler; and Cyrus Salmanzadeh, an active member and foreign student from Iran.

The other chapters represented were from Ohio State, Pennsylvania State, University of Massachusetts, Rutgers, Vermont, Maryland, and acting host, Cornell.

Discussions concerning chapter relations and improvements were followed by the initiation of the governor. An informal cocktail hour preceded a banquet for the honored initiate in the Hotel Stall.

Governor Rockefeller was chosen to be initiated by the fraternity on the basis of his outstanding contribution to agriculture at home and abroad.

Beacon Policy Outlined

This issue is the first for the 1962-63 Beacon staff. The retiring leaders of this organization have served URI well. The new editorial board can only offer them thanks and congratulations for a job well done.

We hope to improve on their efforts and make The Beacon a still more powerful voice on campus. We hope to serve as an integral part of campus life—keeping you posted on the news that is created here and editorializing on happenings that affect us all.

The Beacon is produced by students, written and edited, without any faculty or administration censorship.

We hope to make The Beacon more readable by adding several ideas and innovations, some of which are visible in today's issue.

The Beacon exists to present the happenings of the campus community and it shall be our policy to publish all newsworthy items. With your help we can present a newspaper truly representative of the URI students. Feel free to state your opinion. They are as valuable to us as our own. Remember, this paper is yours—state your opinion, and READ it.

Education With Honor(s)

With the coming of the new honors program, this school is taking a giant step forward toward becoming a full-fledged university. We are happy to see that our administrators and faculty appreciate the importance of offering the gifted student a more challenging and rewarding education, while at the same time allowing him the freedom to devote his time and efforts to an education that is far beyond that attainable by the average student. This program, when adopted, will make the university more inviting and more challenging to the brilliant high school graduates who have, in the past, gone elsewhere to seek this type of freedom and opportunity.

This new program also creates incentives for the more affluent and somewhat lazy intelligensia who have sluffed off academic achievement in the face of little or no reward. This student would now be offered a goal, a reward, and a challenge. The report that was approved recently by the Board of Trustees of State Colleges summarizes its approval of the proposed honors program by stating that "by providing flexibility in courses and instruction, the honors program encourages initiative, reflective and critical thinking, and scholarly creativity."

Until recently, an education at this university has been considered to be a four-year period in which a person must obtain the greatest possible knowledge that will serve him for a lifetime. With the addition of an honor program, the educational process becomes an end in itself in addition to being only a means to a separate end as it was formerly. We feel that the entire university community, especially the student body, should heartily and actively support the institution of a strong, liberal honors program.

Peace Corps Marks Anniversary

The Peace Corps is just one year old and 1,200 people are enrolled in the program, according to James D. Lay, a member of the Washington staff. Mr. Lay said the goal for 1962 is to increase this number to 2,400.

Mr. Lay, speaking before an audience of 75 in Pastore Auditorium recently, said Rhode Island has five members in the Peace Corps.

He added this is a "favorable turnout" in relation to the population of Rhode Island.

Mr. Lay said the "work of peace is not visible." This is the reason for so much criticism of the Peace Corps request of a 63.5 million dollar budget for 1962.

Service in the Peace Corps is for a period of two years, at $75 a month. There are two paid vacations of 30 days each.

Promotion Given to Eighteen University Faculty Members

Eighteen promotions were announced last week at URI to be in effect on July 1, with the exception of James H. Brown Jr., who became an instructor in forestry Feb. 1.

Promoted to associate professorships are Walter P. Gould, forestry; James D. Bromley, consumer education; George W. Stessel, plant pathology and entomology; Peter E. Merenda, psychology; Kathleen F. Smith, secretarial studies; Melvin Lurie, economics; Richard F.

Hill, electrical engineering, and Robert L. Gerraughty, pharmacy.

Promoted to assistant professorships are Charles G. McKiel, mechanized agriculture; Donald B. Burns, music; Joseph F. Dardano, psychology; Robert W. Korn, botany; Paul J. Petrie, English; Mable B. Goshdigan, food and nutrition; Doris L. May, home economics; and Katherine M. Smith, nursing.

Mrs. Joy L. Schumacher was promoted from junior instructor to instructor in nursing.

The Beacon Book Review

Through Two Glasses Darkly

by Miss Nancy Potter

(Ed. Note: Boo Boo Glass, "a Tuckahoe homemaker," as she identifies herself, stopped in Kingston last week on her way to Maine to look over a summer camp for her youngest child. She will be remembered as a panelist on the popular radio program of the 1930's, "It's a Wise Child." She was interviewed by a member of the URI English Department.)

What do I think of Franny and Zooey? I don't complain about the book but about what some people think after reading it. You know, about six years ago this Salinger started telling the readers of a just too-clever big magazine about one representative Saturday and Monday in November, 1955, in the lives of the two youngest of us. And then last year the whole thing got reprinted in a book, and I suppose somewhere, this afternoon, in Minneapolis or Albuquerque, the presses are rolling it out in a paper edition. And Salinger goes on being the darling of the prep school set; and people at Columbia, so help me, are doing Ph.D. dissertations on the Gallagher and Glass act on the Pantages and Orpheum circuit and going to Krakow to look for Zozo's gravestone—you know, Les' grandfather.

It's too much, I tell you. Buddy (he only wrote the whole thing, what he calls "a prose home movie"), well, Buddy went off to sunny old Greece just to escape the letters. You can imagine. Some poet or other was retiring at Harvard, and they asked him up there, and the girls at Kickapoo Junior College didn't see why he wasn't wild about doing a series of Thursday tea-readings or something for them. Like this summer camp bit now. I'm waiting for the first eleven year old at that Maine camp that walks up to my eleven year old and rattles off—label perfect—everything that's in Bessie's kinnona pocket on page seventy-three.

It's not that I object to being public property. After all, Seymour was always telling me to be funny for the Fat Lady too. And everything in Bessie's medicine cabinet is pretty much what any college freshman could tote up in his own, and what's so gorgeously amusing about our living room? Poor old Bloomberg's dead now, and the paint's beginning to fade, which is a blessing. What I object to are all the wrong diagnoses all the amateur analysts have been giving us.

The trouble with us may not come through from Buddy's style, that "semantic geometry in which the shortest distance between any two points is a fullish circle." The real trouble with us, I guess, is that we let ourselves see and then say what everybody else wouldn't dare to. We are always torn between being Buddha or Heidi's grandfather: you know, wanting to be loved and at the same time not being able to stand it. When you see what you have to love—the Lane Coutells and the Professor Tupper of the world, you put it on a personal basis and get sidetracked into despising them and not what they stand for.

The big question is how to keep yourself sane while listening to the little section men who are "all so brilliant they can hardly open their mouths" and the sunburned overfed summer theatre audiences and all the mercenaries and butchers at large in the wide world and even old Bessie with her cups of consecrated chicken broth. It's the job of a lifetime. It's what undid Seymour, and it was gnawing away at Franny on that Yale football weekend. Having lunch with a Lane Coutell and his term paper on Flaubert would be enough to do you in, too, Zooey, for all his crying about being a freak, is really mighty healthy. He knows all about this detachment business.

A Fallout Shelter?

Sees Better Facilities Needed For Journalism Education

Warren K. Agee, director of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalistic fraternity, recently said he wants to see more departments and schools of journalism advanced to the status of independent colleges that would provide for them the freedom, stature and means required for greater accomplishments in journalism education.

Mr. Agee was principal speaker at the 14th Annual George Polk Memorial Awards luncheon in New York, where bronze plaques were awarded for the outstanding achievements in journalism in 1961.

In a prepared address, Mr. Agee said a visit to about 400 universities showed that "with some truly outstanding exceptions, the journalism and communication scholars... are struggling along in poorly-endowed and ill-equipped almost forgotten surroundings."

"I would like to see more funds directed to pure research on university campuses where an ever-increasing number of well-trained journalism educators are working," he added.

The complexity of society today, Mr. Agee said, "is so great that much more is required than the technically trained mind."

He added "The crucial need is the educated mind, implying powers of reason, analysis, synthesis, with sound historical perspective. This kind of mind is the kind the journalist above all must possess."

Winners of the Polk awards are: Foreign Reporting: Morris H. Rubin, editor of the magazine "Progressive"; National Reporting: Gerard Piel, publisher of "Scientific American"; Local Reporting: Laurence Stern, staff reporter of the Washington Post; Radio and Television Reporting: Robert Young and Charles Derkins of NBC News; Community Service: Arnold Brophy, education editor and Joseph S. Gelms of the newspaper Newsday; News Photography: An unidentified photographer; Special Award: Jules Feiffer, cartoonist and writer.

Speaker Discusses Contemporary Art

Contemporary art tries to grapple with the new realities that we are confronted with, said Gordon Washburn, director of the Carnegie Museum in Pittsburgh in an April 10 lecture in Edwards Auditorium sponsored by the Art Department.

Mr. Washburn, former director of the Rhode Island School of Design Museum, said the dominant point of view of our time is irrationalism and irrationality occurs when art loses its clarity as to the images in it. It then becomes abstract art, the speaker said.

Mr. Washburn said an attempt is being made by some painters to paint by their unconscious mind. The painter becomes only a vehicle of his inner thought, he said.

Pershing Rifles in Drill Meet; Comp. Commander Honored

Company D-12 Pershing Rifles of URI took part in the 12th Regiment Pershing Rifles Drill Meet on Saturday, April 14.

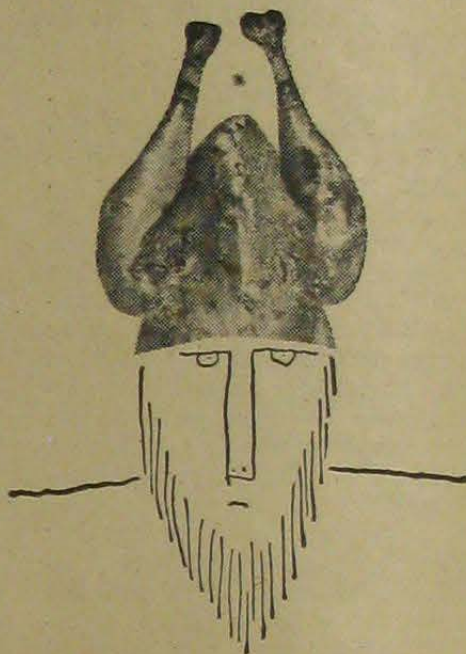

Cadet Captain Drummond was decorated during the formation for his service to the Pershing Rifles. He received the Outstanding Pershing Rifle Award from 12th Regiment Commander Cadet Colonel Richard Garvin.

Cadet Captain Donn Drummond, Company Commander, led the unit through its IDR (regulation) Drill at the Irvington Street Armory. The IDR sequence was performed by the whole Company marching in platoon formation.

In the trick drill competition which took place in the afternoon, URI's Company D-12 was represented by a sixteen-man unit of freshmen and sophomores, drilled by Cadet Lieutenant Jerry Lane.

Lt. Lane drilled the platoon in a sequence featuring new movements such as the Gilliard wheel, in honor of Company advisor Captain Robert Gilliard, and the Lane sequence. The sequence will be used at the May 7 State Drill competition at the Cranston Street Armory in Providence.

American Motors Means More for Americans

Backstage

by Lennie Torman

Bob Brown.

Charles Goff is only one of many persons who are laboring before the curtain rises on opening night. The "Annie" production staff is under the direction of University Theatre president, Bill Lacey. These are just some of the many, many people who are working BACKSTAGE to produce the show which students will see next month.

The names of these unsung heroes appear in the centerfold of the production program, usually among a list of several similarly obscure names.

And, yet, each person on the list must perform a demanding task if the production is to be a success in terms of audience, comment, sales, advertising, costumes, etc.

One such person is Charles Goff, Sales Manager for "Annie Get Your Gun," which will be presented by University Productions, Inc., in Edwards Hall on May 11, 12 and 13.

"It isn't always the easiest thing to elicit response in terms of publicity for a theatre production," Mr. Goff said last Monday when we discussed the promotion for the production.

"We have to go outside the campus gates in terms of publicity to fill Edwards Auditorium for three nights," he said. Edwards Hall seats approximately 1,100 people.

Charles Goff's campaign is a good one.

He has sent form letters to high schools, religious groups, and civic organizations inviting attendance at "Annie Get Your Gun."

He pointed out that "Annie" will be presented on Open House weekend and therefore, he, expects a good turnout of visitors and parents.

Students may now purchase tickets for their parents at the box office in Quinn Hall. Student tickets may be purchased at the Union desk.

On-campus promotion will include the usual advertising and posters, plus a special dormitory campaign, as well as letters to fraternities and sororities.

In addition to Mr. Goff, the sales staff includes Dave Thornton, George Bain, Tony Restivo, and

Newmanites to Hold Final 'Marriage Forum'; Father Murray of Providence is Guest Speaker

The final session of the informal and informative "Marriage Forum," which has been presented by the Newman Club for the past several weeks, was held Thursday, April 12 in Independence Auditorium.

Fr. James S. Murray, O.P., Assistant Pastor of St. Pius Church in Providence, the guest speaker, discussed "The Practical Aspect of Marriage Counseling."

Fr. Murray stressed the practical things which persons anticipating a Catholic marriage should know before asking permission at their rectory.

The setting of a marriage date, marriage instructions for non-Catholics, rehearsals for the ceremony, and the pre-marital investigation by the Church were among the topics discussed.

"Marriage is so important that we cannot trust anybody—even ourselves," said Fr. Murray, referring to the necessity of the pre-marital investigation.

"The most difficult problem in the pre-marital investigation arises when the Church is sometimes called upon to track down a person in distant places to verify statements. It takes so much time to get proper approval," he said.

The "Marriage Forum" is an annual series of five seminars on such topics as courtship and marriage, marriage as a sacrament, and the biological aspects of marriage.

Ricereto Fans Eleven Walks One, in Five Hitter

Ricereto pitched a five-hitter Saturday and shut out the University of New Hampshire, 4-0, giving URI its first Yankee Conference baseball victory of the season.

Ricereto struck out 11 and only walked one. He was in the only in the fourth inning, in which the Wildcats had the bases loaded with no outs. But he then struck the next three batters in order for two strikeouts and a pop-

The Rams collected nine hits, including a double by sophomore Jim

Field, and a triple by Al Alarie.

Field had three hits in four at-bats and Chuck Scarpulla went two-strikes including a single that scored in two runs.

It was Ricereto's first victory in three outings. He previously lost to Eastern 3-2, and to Maine 5-3.

His 11 strikeouts Saturday brought to 28 his total in 27 innings.

URI now sports a record of 2 wins, four losses and one tie. The next home game is this afternoon against Yankee Conference contender Massachusetts starting at 3:00 p.m.

Blue-White Set Saturday, May 12

The second annual Blue-White football game will be held at Meade Field on Saturday, May 12 at 4 p.m.

A donation of 25 cents will be taken and an ugly man will be selected at half time. Trophies for the top three ugly men will be presented to the Women's Housing Units they represent at half time by Dr. Horn.

Athlete of the Week:

Barry Emanuel

Barry Emanuel, from New Rochelle, New York, is one of the finest tennis players to come to the Rhode Island campus in a long time. He is currently playing number one man in singles and doubles, has a 3-2 record so far this year.

In his sophomore year (as in his junior year), Barry played as the number two man and compiled a 11-0 record in dual meets. He teamed with number one man, Bob Carlson, in accounting for a 7-4 record. In the New England, the annual tournament where the best players in New England meet, Barry was the only player to get into the second round. In the Rhode Island State Championships, Barry, in the quarter finals, beat the number one man from Providence College, Jack Devoe, who was also fifth seeded. Barry eventually lost to Art Palmer, second seeded, in the semi-finals. Incidentally, Palmer is now Brown's tennis coach.

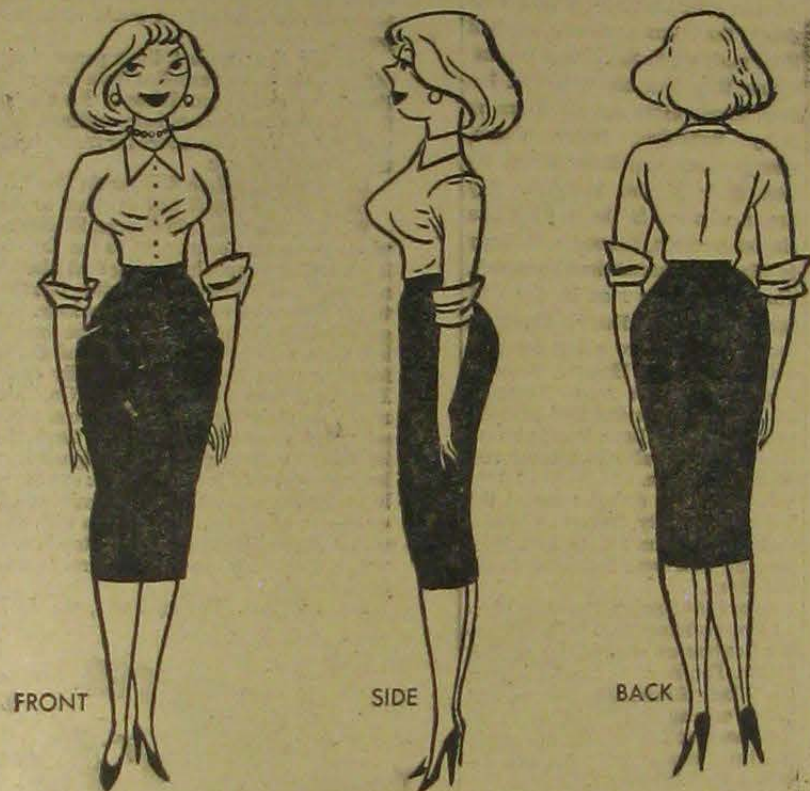

In high school, Barry made the tennis team all three years, and in his senior year was captain of the team along with being number one man. Teamed with partner Jeff Kahn, who is now playing for New York University, they were fifth in the East in the eighteen and under bracket. Barry was seeded fourth in his senior year at an annual tournament held at Cortland State Teachers College, where the best players in the state meet. He lost in the quarter finals.

Besides his athletic prowess, Barry is quite a versatile boy. He held the post of treasurer of the Class of 1962, is a letterman, is a member of the Rhode Island Club, member of the Union Program Committee, and a past member of the Freshman Traditions Committee. He has also served as rush chairman of his fraternity, Alpha Epsilon Pi.

Great things are expected of Barry this year. His athletic career shows that he has great potential. If this is realized and with good support from the rest of the team, Rhode Island will be a strong contender for the Yankee Conference title, and could be one of the strong teams in New England.

LESSON 1 - How to recognize a girl

It is not surprising, in these days of constantly changing fashion standards, that girls are often mistaken for men.

Certain popular items of apparel, such as slacks, baggy sweaters and boxy suits, contribute to this unfortunate situation. Therefore, we suggest that new students of girl watching start with the fundamentals (see above diagram). As you can see, girls are easiest to identify from the side. However, even the beginner will soon achieve proficiency from front and rear as well.

Advanced students can usually tell a girl from a man at five hundred paces, even when both are wearing asbestos firefighting suits. (You might try offering the subject a Pall Mall, but you won't prove anything. It's an extremely popular brand with both sexes.)

Sporting Around . . .

by Harvey Goodman

Since this is my first issue of The Beacon, perhaps it is proper for me to be brief and straight to the point.

In a recent issue of The Beacon, my predecessor Alan Bikenfeld, spoke of interest and participation in all the inter-collegiate sports here at URI in such a way that morally and spiritually, our URI sports teams would have a feeling of pride and dignity. In the short time I have spent watching, reviewing and participating in sports here at Kingston, I have been very unimpressed with the turnout that our teams receive when they play home contests (basketball being an exception).

We, as watchers and not actual participants, must realize that a large crowd can help a mediocre team achieve a winning margin. I have seen this happen many times and I'm sure many of you have too. It does an athlete good to know people are watching and cheering for him and the team, and this brings on a feeling of winning not only for himself and the team but for the school and the avid watchers in the stands.

There are four major spring athletic teams here at Kingston participating in intercollegiate competition: golf, baseball, tennis and track. All four have both varsity and freshman teams (by the way, supporting our freshmen teams is not a waste of time as some people think. These athletes are next year's varsity material). Now, as the spring season is approaching the midway mark, it is not too late to support our Ram teams to show some of that enthusiasm and school spirit that everyone always seems to be talking of but never does anything about.

Springfield Defeats Rams

The Springfield College track and field team completely dominated URI in a meet held here at Kingston last Saturday. The final point score for the meet showed URI completely outclassed, 78-1/2 to 56-1/2.

The Maroons quickly broke the meet wide open when Bob Audwood and Ed Riley ran one-two in the 100 and 220 yd. dashes. Springfield also captured the 440 and 880 yd. dashes, the mile and two mile. Terry Merritt, winning the two mile, was clocked in a record time for a Springfield runner.

But there were bright spots for Coach Tom Russell's trackmen. Paul Hargraves won both the high and low hurdles in times of 15.8 and 25.7 respectively. Bob Patton and John Gonsalves tied for first place in the pole vault with a jump of 13 feet, 6 inches and Bob Marshall took the javelin with a toss of 198 feet, 6 inches. Pete Sakkinen took honors away from teammate Barry Wall in the broad jump with a leap of 22 feet, 4-3/4 inches. Both Wall and Sakkinen later tied in the high jump at 5 feet 10 inches with two jumpers from Springfield.

URI's next trackmeet is this afternoon at Connecticut and the next home meet is on May 4, against New Hampshire.

Brown Beaten; Chase, Grey, Weiss Score

The URI tennis team has already completed five of its scheduled matches and Coach Fred Tootell looks forward to the most successful season in the history of the team.

After starting the season with a 6-0 win over the Coast Guard Academy, the Rams anxiously awaited their match with the Brown Bruins, whom they had never beaten before. Rhody came out victorious as Jerry Sunshine, Roger Chase, George Grey and Mike Weiss all won their singles matches. Ray Sauer, who lost in the number two singles position, teamed with Grey to win their second doubles match. The number one man on the URI squad, Captain Barry Emanuel, fought hard before going down to defeat to Peyton Howard, Brown's fine number one man. Emanuel and Sunshine, playing first doubles, and Chase and Dave Port, playing third doubles, also lost their respective matches.

Rhody's first defeat came at the hands of Trinity College, who defeated the Rams 5-1/2 to 3-1/2. Winning for URI were Sunshine, Sauer and Grey.

Over the vacation, the team played two matches; one, its first Yankee Conference competition against Maine. The team, at top form, beat the Black Bears, 9-0. The second match was against Springfield College here at Kingston. Once again the team was in top form and defeated Springfield 8-1.

Rhody now sports a fine 4-1 record. Today, the Rams take on the University of Connecticut at Keany Gym starting at 2:00 p.m.

CRAM COURSE No. 3: ENGLISH POETRY

Final exams will soon be upon us. This is no time for fun and games. Let us instead study hard, cram fiercely, prepare assiduously.

In this column today let us make a quick survey of English poetry. When we speak of English poetry, we are, of course, speaking of Byron, Shelley, and Keats. Some say that of the three, Keats was the most talented. It is true that he displayed his gifts earlier than the others. While still a schoolboy at St. Swithin's he wrote his epic lines:

*If I am good, I get an apple,
So I don't whistle in the chapel.*

From this distinguished beginning, he went on to write another 40,000 poems in his lifetime—which is all the more remarkable when you consider that he was only five feet tall!

I mention this fact only to show that physical problems never keep the true artist from creating. Byron, for example, was lame. Shelley had an ingrown hair. Nonetheless, these three titans of literature turned out a veritable torrent of romantic poetry.

Nor did they neglect their personal lives. Byron, a devil with the ladies, was expelled from Oxford for dipping Elizabeth Barrett's pigtail in an inkwell. He thereupon left England to fight in the Greek war of independence. He fought bravely and well, but women were never far from his mind, as evidenced by this immortal poem:

How splendid it is to fight for the Greek,

But I don't enjoy it half as much as dancing cheek to cheek.

While Byron fought in Greece, Shelley remained in England, where he became court poet to the Duke of Marlborough. (It is interesting to note in passing that Marlborough was the original spelling of Marlboro Cigarettes, but the makers were unable to get the entire word on the package. With characteristic ingenuity they cleverly lopped off the final "gh". This, of course, left them with a "gh" lying around the factory. They looked for some place to put it and finally decided to give it to the Director of Sales, Mr. Vincent Van Gogh. This had a rather curious result. As plain Van Gogh, he had been a crackerjack director of sales, but once he became Van Gogh, he felt a mysterious, irresistible urge to paint. He resigned from the Company and became an artist. It did not work out too well. When Van Gogh learned what a great success Marlboro Cigarettes quickly became—as, of course, they had to with such a flavorful flavor, such a filterful filter, such a flip-top box, such a soft pack—he was so upset about leaving the firm that he cut off his ear in a fit of chagrin.)

But I digress. Byron, I say, was in Italy and Shelley in

He resigned from the Company and became an artist.

England. Meanwhile Keats went to Rome to try to grow. Who does not remember his wistful lyric:

*Although I am only five feet high,
Some day I will look in an elephant's eye.*

But Keats did not grow. His friends, Shelley and Byron, touched to the heart, rushed to Rome to stretch him. This too failed. Then Byron, ever the ladies' man, took up with Lucrezia Borgia, Catherine of Aragon, and Annie Oakley. Shelley, a more domestic type, stayed home with his wife Mary, and wrote his famous poem:

*I love to stay home with the missus and write,
And hug her and kiss her and give her a bite.*

Mary Shelley finally got so tired of being bitten that she went into another room and wrote Frankenstein. Upon reading the manuscript, Shelley and Byron got so scared they immediately booked passage home to England. Keats tried to go too, but he was so small that the clerk at the steamship office couldn't see him over the top of the counter. So Keats remained in Rome and died of a broken heart.

Byron and Shelley cried a lot and then together composed this immortal epitaph:

*Good old Keats, he might have been short,
But he was a great American and a heck of a good sport.*

Truth, not poetry, is the business of the Marlboro makers, and we tell you truly that you can't find a better tasting, better smoking cigarette than today's Marlboro.
